Tips:
Narrow search results by date/format.
Use “Find It” to check for full text.
Database features include emailing, permalinks, and citation generators.

Types of resources you may encounter in library databases:
Scholarly Journal Articles
Practitioner Journal Articles
Dissertations/Theses

We recommend these databases for getting started:

ERIC
Literature to support educational research and information to improve practice in education. Over one million citations dating to 1966. Includes non-journal materials: books, conference proceedings, and selected presentations, literature reviews and bibliographies and governmental reports on standards, testing, regulations, research, and policy.

ProQuest Education Journals
Gives users access to over 790 top educational publications, including more than 615 with full text. Literature covers primary, secondary, and higher education as well as special education, home schooling, adult education, and related topics.

Professional Development Collection
Journal articles and pamphlets especially for professional educators that includes abstract and index coverage for 800 professional development titles and searchable full text for over 500 journals covering current topics in education.

Academic Search Complete
A multi-disciplinary database that is updated daily and features full text content going back to 1887.

Research Library (ProQuest)
Extensive full-text coverage of interdisciplinary research dating from 1971.

Opposing Viewpoints
Provides a complete one-stop source for information on social issues. Access viewpoint articles, topic overviews, statistics, primary documents, links to websites, and full-text magazine and newspaper articles.
